USSR, Western Policies Aired By Soviet Diplomat

R. Krasilnikov, third secretary of the U.S.S.R. Embassy in Ottawa, spoke yesterday on "The Soviet Role in the Middle East." The speech was sponsored by the McGill United Nations Club.

"There is nothing more sacred now than the preservation of peace all over the world," he began, "but there are forces interested in making war preparations with the aim of gaining more material profits." Mr. Krasilnikov then clarified this statement by pointing out that these forces are the great capitalist monopolies which in their search for profits influence their governments regardless of world peace.

He pointed out that there is

by Hervey Cundill

such a distortion of the news in some countries today that it is difficult, even for the honest student, to tell right from wrong when studying foreign affairs. "It is well known that the Middle East, and especially the Arabian Peninsula is rich in oil, the rights to which have been seized by the United States and Great Britain among others," and went on to point out the huge profits which were made by the great oil monopolies, who "commit every crime against the peace-loving Arabian peoples". Meanwhile the western powers divide Asia and Africa into spheres of influence and then quarrel among themselves over them. Later at a press conference he gave examples of Anglo-American discord which although made much of in Europe last summer, were either played down or didn't find their way into the newspapers this side of the Atlantic.

Western Colonialism

He then spoke of the western powers, "especially the U.S." fighting to keep the former colonies and protectorates within the capitalist system. Compared to this the Soviet foreign policy is "constantly aimed at world peace" with "peaceful co-existence and non-interference" as the keynote. As examples of these contrasting policies he referred to the "dark days of Suez" when the U.S.S.R. led a wave of protest against "the imperialist gamble", and then contrasted this with such western policies as the Dullesian "brink of war." He also said that the U.S. protest at the same time was deliberately shown in the wrong light and that it was untrue that the U.S. had no connection in the matter. This, he said, was proved by a revelation in an issue of the Saturday Evening Post last April, which was based upon private conversations with officials, including Dulles.

He then gave an account of the order of events leading up to the attack on Egypt which ended in moral defeat for the imperialist powers and in military defeat for Egypt. According to Mr. Krasilnikov, Great Britain had planned the invasion of Egypt in 1953, with the U.S. "fully informed". He claimed that the U.S. protest after the attack was a maneuver to gain the position which Great Britain and France had held up to that time in the Middle East.

Syrian Situation

The Syrian situation was the next topic which Mr. Krasilnikov discussed. He disclosed a plot in which the U.S. sought to ruin Syria's wheat trade with Italy by dumping cheaper wheat on the Italian market. This outlet for her trade discouraged, Syria turned to the U.S.S.R. who bought the wheat from her. The U.S. then tried using Syria's neighbours as cats' paws. Israel was refused permission to attack Syria because a close alliance of Washington and Tel Aviv would arouse Arab nationalism. When a controlled attack by Turkey was decided upon last September, Premier Bulganin sent a warning note, and that plan was rejected for the time being. The only road to peace, said Mr. Krasilnikov, is agreement; the U.S.S.R., unlike the monopoly-run western powers is not interested in oil, it is interested only in peaceful co-existence in the Middle East.

McGill Hosts 26 Colleges At Xmas CUP Conference

McGill will be the scene of the annual Canadian University Press conference on December 26, 27 and 28.

The Canadian University Press is a union of 28 Canadian college newspapers which serves as a news agency for college journals across Canada, as well as being their main voice in matters concerning the college press as a whole.

The CUP holds an annual conference to discuss the business of the news agency, and to provide college journalists with a chance to "talk shop" informally.

The highlight of the conference is the announcement of winners in competitions which are organized annually by the press union.

Because of the diverse nature of college newspapers, the competition is organized in four categories with trophies offered in each.

Southam Trophy

The Southam trophy is offered annually to newspapers publishing more than three times weekly. This includes The McGill Daily, The Varsity (Univ. of Toronto), The Ubyssy (U.B.C.), The Gateway, (Univ. of Alberta), and the Queen's Journal.

Open Meeting At Women's Union

The first semi-annual open meeting of the Women's Union will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the R.V.C. Common Room. Since these meetings give all women an opportunity to see what the Women's Union is doing, all should make an effort to attend.

Minor amendments to the constitution concerning the dates of the open meetings, duties of the vice-president and elections of faculty representatives will be proposed; the budget will be presented; and a report of the work done by the Women's Union in the past year will be given. Candidates for Women's Union posts will also be introduced at the meeting.

by Peter Rehak

The trophy is awarded on the basis of three consecutive issues of each newspaper picked at random. Last year the trophy was won by the Gateway, with the Toronto Varsity placing second.

The Jacques Bureau trophy is awarded in a similar manner to weekly newspapers. The Muse of the Memorial University (Newfoundland) won it last year.

The Bracken trophy is awarded to the newspapers with the best editorial writing, and the Le Droit trophy is awarded to the best French language newspaper. Both of the latter were won by the Quartier Latin — a weekly published at the University of Montreal.

75 Delegates

Approximately 75 delegates from over twenty newspapers and observers are expected at this year's conference.

The Daily will act as host for the gathering, which was held in Toronto last year under the auspices of the Varsity.

The place of the conference is rotated every year, as are the duties of host paper and executive paper. The executive paper is in charge of all CUP administration for a whole year. This year it is the Queen's Journal.

The news service of the Canadian University Press consists of on the spot coverage of events of national interest such as the NFCUS conference and sending wires to member papers by the paper in whose campus the story takes place.

The CUP also arranges for a mailing service of all member papers. Thus the McGill Daily receives copies of all newspapers each day. These are a source for news as well as the CUP column, which features selected items chosen by the CUP editor.

Arrangements Underway

The CUP conference committee consisting of Daily staffers is busily preparing for the influx of delegates from Newfoundland to British Columbia, making arrangements for their accommodations and entertainment.

Three issues of the Daily have already been picked to be judged in the competition for the Southam Trophy, and the results will be announced on the 1st day of the conference.

The judges are usually working newspapermen, or professors of journalism, who vary each year.

'57 Women's Fair Begins Thursday

The Women's Union Fair, which will be held on Thursday, Dec. 5, is one of the major projects of the Women's Union for the year. The Fair will be competing with the Treasure Van, but it is hoped that all women will make a special effort to help make it a success. Last year the Fair was most successful, raising well over six hundred dollars.

The Fair will begin at three o'clock and continue until 9 pm. Refreshments will be served all day in the Tea Room.

Any donations for the Fair should be taken to the Women's Union office. Cooking should not be handed in until Thursday.

Weber Speaks In Tuesday Series

The final lecture for this term of the On Tuesday series will take place in Moysse hall today at 5 pm. The speaker will be Rev. George W. Weber of the East Harlem Parish, who will speak on the topic, "The Foolishness of God".

The East Harlem Parish is an experiment in group ministry to a lower class district in New York City, which was started in 1948 by a group of Protestant ministers.

METROPOLITAN GOVERNMENT IS SUBJECT OF PANEL DISCUSSION

His Worship, Mayor A. Sydney Bruneau, of Westmount, will be the chief member of the panel in a Debating Union Forum, which will take place at 1 pm Tuesday in the Walter M. Stewart candidate for the S.E.C. for Arts and Science.

Chairman of the panel will be Professor J.R. Mallory of the Department of Political Science. Professor Mallory was a commentator on the civic elections for a local radio station, and is a close follower of the local political scene.

GMR Platform

Metropolitan government was the main plank of the platform of the Greater Montreal Rally, supporters of Sen. Sarto Fournier who won the mayoralty of Montreal in the recent civic elections. Provincial Premier Maurice Duplessis is also known to be strongly in favour of the plan, which has already been adopted by Toronto.

In essence, the system would require the many independent municipalities which make up Greater Montreal to surrender some of their powers to a central control board, thus permitting more efficient traffic control, street maintenance, and so on. A general question period will follow the panel discussion. The Forum is open to all students.

Mayor A. Sydney Bruneau

Room of the Union. The panel will discuss the question, "Is metropolitan government necessary for Montreal?"

Other panelists will be Stuart Smith, President of the McGill Union; Ian Soutar, Vice-President of the Debating Union and Chairman of the Winter Carnival; Brahm Campbell, executive of the United Nations and Liberal Clubs and an active debater; and Morris Fish,

Editorials

Comfortably Empty

We have looked at the platforms for the SEC candidates and we are not impressed. In fact we are damned disappointed. The same old platitudes are reiterated, the same fulsome promises, the very same lack of constructive ideas seems to be the hallmark of campus politicians.

There is no reflection that these candidates are conscious that they are coming to maturity in an age which will demand much of them; there is no evidence of an awareness that as students they can help to play a useful role in shaping the society in which they are going to be adults. There is no mention of NFCUS, a national student body which has a useful part to play in Canada, no recognition of the highly important connections we have with international student bodies such as WUS and IUS, and what our policies in these directions should be, not even a word about local activities like MCWA and SCOPE and how these fine organisations can be improved. Candidates seem to operate in a vacuum and to run for election on a hope, a smug photo and the fraternity or other lobby vote.

We commented in these columns that critics have called this generation the no-nonsense lads and we said that we saw nothing wrong in seeking for financial security. Maybe what these critics were really seeing was an absence of spirit in this generation and maybe they are right in respect of McGill students. We remember well the remark of a noted McGill professor and writer who, commenting on the lack of zest amongst MCWA delegates, said that Canadian students lacked a sense of irreverence. Maybe in the drive for security we do get caught up in the quicksand of conformity and do not dare to stick our necks out for any idea that seems off colour or different from the norm. And so we go on in comfortable dullness from year to year with the same boring elections, dressing smugly conservative not from taste but from convention, and worst of all for college men, considering conservatism in ideas a virtue in an age where rapid physical change is the norm. We forget that the lesson of history has been that the radical thought of today is the password of tomorrow and that all ideas were new and strange once.

Perhaps the fact that universities are so much like trade schools these days is not wholly the fault of the colleges; it seems the students want them that way.

The Old College Try

It's no wonder that people join fraternities, or the various social-cultural clubs on Campus. If the student outside of these groups wishes to have himself a "collegiate" time of it on a Saturday night, he must go to the "BIG" dance up at the Gym. These dances are, for the most part, very successful, by all the usual standards. The band is a good one; a lot of people come; a lot of money is paid out.

But the atmosphere at these dances can best be described as eerie. If a girl cuddles close at one of these mammoth affairs, probably she's scared stiff. The gym is vast, and thousands of people mill around. But lack of intimacy isn't considered enough — the whole Gym is rendered almost completely dark. Perhaps some find this romantic, but it only makes us remember the well-known psychological fact that a human becomes completely disoriented in a large dark room.

On top of this, the whole Gym is filled with the boisterous shouts of a thousand voices — aided by the frequent brave attempts of well-oiled plumbers to make the party intimate by rendering "We are we are we are we are..." As well, none of these dances is complete unless the Gym is unbearably hot. All this gives the illusion of a somewhat modernistic interpretation of Hades.

We will not attempt to suggest any solution to this problem, if it is a problem. As far as we can see, everyone seems to be fairly well satisfied with this organized confusion. Who are we to criticize the "old college try"?

Letters To The Editor

Cosmo Complaint

Sir:

Is the Cosmopolitan Club serving any useful purpose on the McGill Campus? Is the purpose of the Club, to establish friendly relations between peoples of all nationalities and religions on the McGill Campus a needed one? On the whole, are the National Clubs serving any useful purpose on the Campus? Apparently, the S.E.C. does not hold that opinion.

McGill is proud of the fact that she is a Cosmopolitan University. For does a "Cosmopolitan Campus" not give McGill a sense of internationalism? But how can a university function as a group if the peoples of the "Cosmopolitan World" on the Campus are not brought together to meet and understand the different types of cultures and ways of life that exist among them? If friendly relations are not established between students of various nationalities and religions, then the Campus will be built up of several cliques and pity the poor freshman — or for that matter the naive student — who enters McGill. He will have to fight his way into the existing cliques, prove that he can be accepted before he can make any intimate relations. And is not college life that time of our lives when we make life-long friendships? Surely, we cannot help but feel that the above ideas are the goals of the National Clubs. And in turn, is it not the Cosmopolitan Club which tries to bring the various members of the National Clubs together? Not only does the Club sponsor programs in conjunction with the National Clubs, but climaxes the year with an International Function consisting of all the National Clubs, with the purpose of establishing friendships and better understanding of the members of the different Clubs.

Today, the world is in a state of unrest, a state of uncertainty, a state of confusion. And why? If peoples of the world could have a better understanding of each other, then this world would be a more pleasant place indeed. For is not ignorance a lack of understanding or a lack of interest?

We can think of the McGill Campus as a small complete world. And until Catholics, Jews and all members of the various religions meet and accept each other and segregation is overcome, then, and only then will the various prejudices which exist disappear. And this is the aim of the Cosmopolitan Club and of the National Clubs. Does not the West Indian Society and other Clubs, try to help the freshman in his first year problems, such as finding a suitable place of abode and getting him familiar with the University? What a frightening thought it is to arrive in a large city such as Montreal without knowing anyone and without anyone to advise you. How easy it would be to fall into the deceiver's evils if we were not "shown the way".

And all this the S.E.C. feels is of little importance to the McGill Campus. Practically all of the Clubs operate on an impossibly low budget. How can any organization function properly without a "half-decent" budget? Yet, the S.E.C. can spend $1,500 on the Awards Banquet and only $468 for all the clubs. I am not against the Awards Banquet, but can't there be a larger budget allowed for the National Clubs? Or maybe, the members of the S.E.C. do not uphold the reasoning powers for which we gave them credit and chose them to be our leaders?

For the last two years, the Cosmopolitan Club has not received a penny from the S.E.C. and at present the Club only has $15 as its capital. Under these conditions, it appears as if the Club will HAVE TO CEASE OPERATING. There will soon be a General Meeting of all Cosmo members to discuss this issue and others.

Druce A. Sinson,

President of the Cosmopolitan Club.

HEENAN CHOSEN TO ATTEND WEST POINT CONFERENCE

Roy Heenan, Law I, has been chosen as McGill's representative to the Ninth Student Conference on United States Affairs which will be held from December 4 to December 7 at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, New York.

Sixty-five colleges and Universities in Canada and the United States are represented at this conference by 160 students selected on a basis of interest and capability in the field of international relations and the related courses in the social sciences.

Roy Heenan

"The National Security Policy of the United States" will be the subject of this year's conference. In addition, the students will discuss the following sub-topics: The Atlantic Community, Middle East and Africa, South and Southeast Asia, Latin America, and the U.S.S.R. and Satellites.

ROUND TABLE GROUPS

Each of these sub-topics will be analyzed by a separate round table group of nineteen participants, led by a faculty level chairman and counselled by an advisor who is an authority on the topic. They will proceed to some agreement on the scope and nature of the problem, and then develop a course of action for dealing with it.

A number of speeches and panel discussions presented by authorities in government and academic circles will give the students further guidance. The conference will open with a keynote address by Mr. William C. Foster who is a member of the Science Advisory Group of the Office of Defence Mobilization. At the close of the conference, Mr. Chester Bowles, former Governor of Connecticut and United States Ambassador, will address the participants at an informal banquet.

Clark To Discuss Quebec Oil Deposit

Dr. T.H. Clark, chairman of the Geology Department at McGill University, will speak on the "Potentialities of Oil in the St. Lawrence Lowlands". The speech will be given in Room 232 of the P.S.C. at 1 pm today.

In recent years a large share of the more detailed geological mapping in the area around Montreal has been carried out by Dr. Clark. Several of his reports have been published by the Quebec Department of Mines.

The possibility of oil occurring in economic quantities in the Lowlands has resulted in the recent acceleration of exploration. A large share of the systematic exploration can be accredited to the results of work by geologists such as Dr. Clark.

'Flying Carpet' To Begin Auditions

Anyone who is interested in acting or dancing for the "Flying Carpet" is asked to come to the Union at 8 pm next Thursday, December 12. The proceeds from the Show will go to the International House Fund.

In an effort to combat the housing problem on campus, the funds will be used to provide McGill with an International House where Canadians as well as students from all other countries can live and study together.

Students from many national groups on campus are already rehearsing songs and dances for the show which will be presented in Moyse Hall on January 16, 17, 18.

CHORAL SOCIETY TO PRESENT ANNUAL CHRISTMAS CONCERT

"Sing at Christmas", the annual end-of-term concert by the McGill Choral Society, will take place this year on Saturday, December 14, at 8:30 pm in the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium. This year the large choir will be joined by the 35 piece Symphonic Band.

Tickets for "Sing at Christmas" are now on sale for $1.00 at the Union Tuckshop, the International Music Store, or from any member of the Choral Society. The concert is open to the general public as well as McGill students.

Gifford Mitchell, the well-known Montreal musician who directs the Society, has made little change in the programme format that has been traditional since 1945. The popular old carols will again be sung by choir and audience together; during the first half of the concert the Choral Society will sing a wide range of more serious Christmas music, while students from many of the countries represented at McGill will read excerpts from the Christmas Story, both in their own language and in English. The second half of the programme will be devoted to a humorous medley called "A Christmas Party", in which the Symphonic Band, largely composed of members of the Redmen Band, will accompany the Choral Society.

The accompanist of the 230 voice mixed choir is William Stevens, a local concert pianist who has been acclaimed throughout Canada and the United States, and who also does a considerable amount of radio work.

AWARD-WINNING DESIGNS OF ALCAN COMPETITION SHOWN

Seven sets of award-winning drawings, by Canadian architects, illustrating a new concept of office building design will be on display in the Physical Sciences Building from December 5 to 13.

Pleasant working conditions and amenities for employees are the prevalent features of these ultra-modern designs. The most notable feature is the large open landscaped areas.

The drawings on display were selected award winners in the ALCAN Architectural Competition sponsored by Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (ALCAN).

SITE IN TORONTO

The Competition was open only to members of the R.A.I.C. resident in Canada. It was sparked by interest in a self-contained Sales Office for the Toronto area, and following the trend towards decentralization of industrial plants and retail shopping centers, a proposed site was selected in Etobicoke, on the outskirts of Toronto. The cost of the buildings was set at $500,000.

Sixty Canadian architects submitted entries. The first award of $6,000 was won by Henry Fliess of Toronto. Richard E. Bolton, F.R.A.I.C., Montreal, served as professional adviser.

RED AND WHITE REVUE AUDITIONS

The first dancing audition for the Red and White Revue will be held today at 8 pm. The first singing audition will be on Wednesday, Dec. 4 at 8 pm. There will be closed auditions (check with the Daily) at 8 pm on Thursday, December 5. All auditions will be held in the Union.

Basketball Team To Play In U.S.

by Steve Fichman

As usually happens in the first week of December, coach Joe Anderson leads his Senior basketball Redmen across the U.S. border today to tangle with the Clarkson College Golden Knights. Tomorrow they journey ten miles to face the St. Lawrence University Larries in the second and final game of their road trip.

Anderson has been working his charges five days per week for the last month in preparation for these two exhibition contests, and as he says, "If we're hitting, we will give them a tough fight."

CROSS BACK

Big 6'5" Justin Cross will lead the McGill squad at center. 'Jut' has been an important factor in all of the games that he has played with the Redmen, and if his studies don't interfere too much this season, he is bound to play a lot of good ball.

Playing the guard positions will be captain Don Wright and Tim Leary. Wright, who has been hampered by a leg injury ever since his return from the Macabian games, is sure to turn in a fine effort if he starts. Leary, a product of Rochester, will be an asset to the Redmen with his accurate shooting.

Along with these hoopsters will be Johnny Thompson, who is returning to the squad after a year's absence, and Tom Richards, a 6'4" newcomer who will fill in for Cross at center. Added to the Redmen line-up will be Roy Miller, Sonny Gordon, Hugh Mackinnon and George Rosenberg among others.

Two of last year's top rebounders, Leon Du Plessis and Herm Zloklikovits, will not make the trip due to

BOXING

All boxers participating in the Athletics night show against Dartmouth are urged to attend tonight's workout at 5 pm for further instructions.

WOMEN'S SNOOKER

All coeds are invited to attend the women's "pool" class tonight and every Tuesday in the Union Billiard Room from 8:10:30 pm under the expert tutelage of Syd Leithman, B.C. L-1.

YMHA Polomen Down McGill 16-10

The Y.M.H.A. Blues proved without a doubt that they are the class of the city water polo teams when they outswam and outscored the McGill Redmen by a 16-10 count in the McGill pool last night.

George Sevcik, an Hungarian ace, led the 'Y' attack with six goals. Sharp-shooting Normie Goldberg followed close behind with five markers. Manny Hoffman and Syd Kastner scored twice apiece, while Milo Klacko tallied once in his first appearance of the season.

Bernie 'Topper' Toporowski tied for high-scoring honours by tallying six of McGill's ten markers. Charlie Evelyn scored twice, while Bill Manning and Rod Roy each counted once. Juris Svistunen played in goal for the Redmen in the absence of regular goaler John Chabrol.

The first half produced some of the best water polo action of the season. Each team scored three times in a close, hard-fought first quarter. The 'Y' began to assert its superiority in the second quarter, outscoring McGill 5-2. With the Blues leading 8-5 at the half, it was still anybody's game.

The Blues dominated the second half, continuously outswimming and outpositioning the Redmen. They outscored McGill 4-2 in the third quarter and 4-3 in the final canto to make the final count 16-10.

pressure of studies.

The Clarkson contest should provide plenty of thrills as the Redmen are set to avenge last season's close defeat at the hands of the Golden Knights.

LARRIES' ROSTER

Going for coach Bob Sheldon's Larries will be forwards Bob Slater, Rusty Kraft and Dave Marcotte, as well as guards Al Geppert and Tony Marotte. The Larries have been weak in the passing department this year, and coach Sheldon has been working his squad's fingers to the bone in order to sharpen up their passing attack.

In last year's encounter, the Red and White squad held their own against the Larries until the final fifteen minutes when McGill tired badly and fell apart.

Actually, the McGill crew isn't being given much of a chance of running all over their American opponents, but as coach Anderson says, "We'll be in there plugging."

WOMEN'S HOCKEY

Coach Leo Konyk says the Redmen have nothing on his promising teams of belles from Arts and Science, Commerce, Physical Education, and Physiotherapy, who have been practicing every Wednesday from 1-2 and Friday from 5-6.

The schedule starts this Friday, when the Physio's meet Arts & Science at 5 and Alpha Omicron Pi vs. the D.G.'s at 5:30 pm.

USSR, Western Policies Aired By Soviet Diplomat

R. Krasilnikov, third secretary of the U.S.S.R. Embassy in Ottawa, spoke yesterday on "The Soviet Role in the Middle East." The speech was sponsored by the McGill United Nations Club.

"There is nothing more sacred now than the preservation of peace all over the world," he began, "but there are forces interested in making war preparations with the aim of gaining more material profits." Mr. Krasilnikov then clarified this statement by pointing out that these forces are the great capitalist monopolies which in their search for profits influence their governments regardless of world peace.

He pointed out that there is

by Hervey Cundill

such a distortion of the news in some countries today that it is difficult, even for the honest student, to tell right from wrong when studying foreign affairs. "It is well known that the Middle East, and especially the Arabian Peninsula is rich in oil, the rights to which have been seized by the United States and Great Britain among others," and went on to point out the huge profits which were made by the great oil monopolies, who "commit every crime against the peace-loving Arabian peoples". Meanwhile the western powers divide Asia and Africa into spheres of influence and then quarrel among themselves over them. Later at a press conference he gave examples of Anglo-American discord which although made much of in Europe last summer, were either played down or didn't find their way into the newspapers this side of the Atlantic.

Western Colonialism

He then spoke of the western powers, "especially the U.S." fighting to keep the former colonies and protectorates within the capitalist system. Compared to this the Soviet foreign policy is "constantly aimed at world peace" with "peaceful co-existence and non-interference" as the keynote. As examples of these contrasting policies he referred to the "dark days of Suez" when the U.S.S.R. led a wave of protest against "the imperialist gamble", and then contrasted this with such western policies as the Dullesian "brink of war." He also said that the U.S. protest at the same time was deliberately shown in the wrong light and that it was untrue that the U.S. had no connection in the matter. This, he said, was proved by a revelation in an issue of the Saturday Evening Post last April, which was based upon private conversations with officials, including Dulles.

He then gave an account of the order of events leading up to the attack on Egypt which ended in moral defeat for the imperialist powers and in military defeat for Egypt. According to Mr. Krasilnikov, Great Britain had planned the invasion of Egypt in 1953, with the U.S. "fully informed". He claimed that the U.S. protest after the attack was a maneuver to gain the position which Great Britain and France had held up to that time in the Middle East.

Syrian Situation

The Syrian situation was the next topic which Mr. Krasilnikov discussed. He disclosed a plot in which the U.S. sought to ruin Syria's wheat trade with Italy by dumping cheaper wheat on the Italian market. This outlet for her trade discouraged, Syria turned to the U.S.S.R. who bought the wheat from her. The U.S. then tried using Syria's neighbours as cats' paws. Israel was refused permission to attack Syria because a close alliance of Washington and Tel Aviv would arouse Arab nationalism. When a controlled attack by Turkey was decided upon last September, Premier Bulganin sent a warning note, and that plan was rejected for the time being. The only road to peace, said Mr. Krasilnikov, is agreement; the U.S.S.R., unlike the monopoly-run western powers is not interested in oil, it is interested only in peaceful co-existence in the Middle East.

McGill Hosts 26 Colleges At Xmas CUP Conference

McGill will be the scene of the annual Canadian University Press conference on December 26, 27 and 28.

The Canadian University Press is a union of 28 Canadian college newspapers which serves as a news agency for college journals across Canada, as well as being their main voice in matters concerning the college press as a whole.

The CUP holds an annual conference to discuss the business of the news agency, and to provide college journalists with a chance to "talk shop" informally.

The highlight of the conference is the announcement of winners in competitions which are organized annually by the press union.

Because of the diverse nature of college newspapers, the competition is organized in four categories with trophies offered in each.

Southam Trophy

The Southam trophy is offered annually to newspapers publishing more than three times weekly. This includes The McGill Daily, The Varsity (Univ. of Toronto), The Ubysey (U.B.C.), The Gateway, (Univ. of Alberta), and the Queen's Journal.

Open Meeting At Women's Union

The first semi-annual open meeting of the Women's Union will be held this afternoon at 3 o'clock in the R.V.C. Common Room. Since these meetings give all women an opportunity to see what the Women's Union is doing, all should make an effort to attend.

Minor amendments to the constitution concerning the dates of the open meetings, duties of the vice-president and elections of faculty representatives will be proposed; the budget will be presented; and a report of the work done by the Women's Union in the past year will be given. Candidates for Women's Union posts will also be introduced at the meeting.

by Peter Rehak

The trophy is awarded on the basis of three consecutive issues of each newspaper picked at random. Last year the trophy was won by the Gateway, with the Toronto Varsity placing second.

The Jacques Bureau trophy is awarded in a similar manner to weekly newspapers. The Muse of the Memorial University (Newfoundland) won it last year.

The Bracken trophy is awarded to the newspapers with the best editorial writing, and the Le Droit trophy is awarded to the best French language newspaper. Both of the latter were won by the Quartier Latin — a weekly published at the University of Montreal.

75 Delegates

Approximately 75 delegates from over twenty newspapers and observers are expected at this year's conference.

The Daily will act as host for the gathering, which was held in Toronto last year under the auspices of the Varsity.

The place of the conference is rotated every year, as are the duties of host paper and executive paper. The executive paper is in charge of all CUP administration for a whole year. This year it is the Queen's Journal.

The news service of the Canadian University Press consists of on the spot coverage of events of national interest such as the NFCUS conference and sending wires to member papers by the paper in whose campus the story takes place.

The CUP also arranges for a mailing service of all member papers. Thus the McGill Daily receives copies of all newspapers each day. These are a source for news as well as the CUP column, which features selected items chosen by the CUP editor.

Arrangements Underway

The CUP conference committee consisting of Daily staffers is busily preparing for the influx of delegates from Newfoundland to British Columbia, making arrangements for their accommodations and entertainment.

Three issues of the Daily have already been picked to be judged in the competition for the Southam Trophy, and the results will be announced on the 1st day of the conference.

The judges are usually working newspapermen, or professors of journalism, who vary each year.

'57 Women's Fair Begins Thursday

The Women's Union Fair, which will be held on Thursday, Dec. 5, is one of the major projects of the Women's Union for the year. The Fair will be competing with the Treasure Van, but it is hoped that all women will make a special effort to help make it a success. Last year the Fair was most successful, raising well over six hundred dollars.

The Fair will begin at three o'clock and continue until 9 pm. Refreshments will be served all day in the Tea Room.

Any donations for the Fair should be taken to the Women's Union office. Cooking should not be handed in until Thursday.

Weber Speaks In Tuesday Series

The final lecture for this term of the On Tuesday series will take place in Moyse hall today at 5 pm. The speaker will be Rev. George W. Weber of the East Harlem Parish, who will speak on the topic, "The Foolishness of God".

The East Harlem Parish is an experiment in group ministry to a lower class district in New York City, which was started in 1948 by a group of Protestant ministers.

METROPOLITAN GOVERNMENT IS SUBJECT OF PANEL DISCUSSION

His Worship, Mayor A. Sydney Bruneau, of Westmount, will be the chief member of the panel in a Debating Union Forum, which will take place at 1 pm Tuesday in the Walter M. Stewart candidate for the S.E.C. for Arts and Science.

Chairman of the panel will be Professor J.R. Mallory of the Department of Political Science. Professor Mallory was a commentator on the civic elections for a local radio station, and is a close follower of the local political scene.

GMR Platform

Metropolitan government was the main plank of the platform of the Greater Montreal Rally, supporters of Sen. Sarto Fournier who won the mayoralty of Montreal in the recent civic elections. Provincial Premier Maurice Duplessis is also known to be strongly in favour of the plan, which has already been adopted by Toronto.

In essence, the system would require the many independent municipalities which make up Greater Montreal to surrender some of their powers to a central control board, thus permitting more efficient traffic control, street maintenance, and so on. A general question period will follow the panel discussion. The Forum is open to all students.

ELECTIONS

Wednesday, Dec. 4, 1957.
All students must present identity cards before voting.

Mayor A. Sydney Bruneau

Room of the Union. The panel will discuss the question, "Is metropolitan government necessary for Montreal?"

Other panelists will be Stuart Smith, President of the McGill Union; Ian Soutar, Vice-President of the Debating Union and Chairman of the Winter Carnival; Brahm Campbell, executive of the United Nations and Liberal Clubs and an active debater; and Morris Fish,

Editorials

Comfortably Empty

We have looked at the platforms for the SEC candidates and we are not impressed. In fact we are damned disappointed. The same old platitudes are reiterated, the same fulsome promises, the very same lack of constructive ideas seems to be the hallmark of campus politicians.

There is no reflection that these candidates are conscious that they are coming to maturity in an age which will demand much of them; there is no evidence of an awareness that as students they can help to play a useful role in shaping the society in which they are going to be adults. There is no mention of NFCUS, a national student body which has a useful part to play in Canada, no recognition of the highly important connections we have with international student bodies such as WUS and IUS, and what our policies in these directions should be, not even a word about local activities like MCWA and SCOPE and how these fine organisations can be improved. Candidates seem to operate in a vacuum and to run for election on a hope, a smug photo and the fraternity or other lobby vote.

We commented in these columns that critics have called this generation the no-nonsense lads and we said that we saw nothing wrong in seeking for financial security. Maybe what these critics were really seeing was an absence of spirit in this generation and maybe they are right in respect of McGill students. We remember well the remark of a noted McGill professor and writer who, commenting on the lack of zest among MCWA delegates, said that Canadian students lacked a sense of irreverence. Maybe in the drive for security we do get caught up in the quicksand of conformity and do not dare to stick our necks out for any idea that seems off colour or different from the norm. And so we go on in comfortable dullness from year to year with the same boring elections, dressing smugly conservative not from taste but from convention, and worst of all for college men, considering conservatism in ideas a virtue in an age where rapid physical change is the norm. We forget that the lesson of history has been that the radical thought of today is the password of tomorrow and that all ideas were new and strange once.

Perhaps the fact that universities are so much like trade schools these days is not wholly the fault of the colleges; it seems the students want them that way.

The Old College Try

It's no wonder that people join fraternities, or the various social-cultural clubs on Campus. If the student outside of these groups wishes to have himself a "collegiate" time of it on a Saturday night, he must go to the "BIG" dance up at the Gym. These dances are, for the most part, very successful, by all the usual standards. The band is a good one; a lot of people come; a lot of money is paid out.

But the atmosphere at these dances can best be described as eerie. If a girl cuddles close at one of these mammoth affairs, probably she's scared stiff. The gym is vast, and thousands of people mill around. But lack of intimacy isn't considered enough — the whole Gym is rendered almost completely dark. Perhaps some find this romantic, but it only makes us remember the well-known psychological fact that a human becomes completely disoriented in a large dark room.

On top of this, the whole Gym is filled with the boisterous shouts of a thousand voices — aided by the frequent brave attempts of well-oiled plumbers to make the party intimate by rendering "We are we are we are we are..." As well, none of these dances is complete unless the Gym is unbearably hot. All this gives the illusion of a somewhat modernistic interpretation of Hades.

We will not attempt to suggest any solution to this problem, if it is a problem. As far as we can see, everyone seems to be fairly well satisfied with this organized confusion. Who are we to criticize the "old college try"?

Letters To The Editor

Cosmo Complaint

Sir:

Is the Cosmopolitan Club serving any useful purpose on the McGill Campus? Is the purpose of the Club, to establish friendly relations between peoples of all nationalities and religions on the McGill Campus a needed one? On the whole, are the National Clubs serving any useful purpose on the Campus? Apparently, the S.E.C. does not hold that opinion.

McGill is proud of the fact that she is a Cosmopolitan University. For does a "Cosmopolitan Campus" not give McGill a sense of internationalism? But how can a university function as a group if the peoples of the "Cosmopolitan World" on the Campus are not brought together to meet and understand the different types of cultures and ways of life that exist among them? If friendly relations are not established between students of various nationalities and religions, then the Campus will be built up of several cliques and pity the poor freshman — or for that matter the naive student — who enters McGill. He will have to fight his way into the existing cliques, prove that he can be accepted before he can make any intimate relations. And is not college life that time of our lives when we make life-long friendships? Surely, we cannot help but feel that the above ideas are the goals of the National Clubs. And in turn, is it not the Cosmopolitan Club which tries to bring the various members of the National Clubs together? Not only does the Club sponsor programs in conjunction with the National Clubs, but climaxes the year with an International Function consisting of all the National Clubs, with the purpose of establishing friendships and better understanding of the members of the different Clubs.

Today, the world is in a state of unrest, a state of uncertainty, a state of confusion. And why? If peoples of the world could have a better understanding of each other, then this world would be a more pleasant place indeed. For is not ignorance a lack of understanding or a lack of interest?

We can think of the McGill Campus as a small complete world. And until Catholics, Jews and all members of the various religions meet and accept each other and segregation is overcome, then, and only then will the various prejudices which exist disappear. And this is the aim of the Cosmopolitan Club and of the National Clubs. Does not the West Indian Society and other Clubs, try to help the freshman in his first year problems, such as finding a suitable place of abode and getting him familiar with the University? What a frightening thought it is to arrive in a large city such as Montreal without knowing anyone and without anyone to advise you. How easy it would be to fall into the decoy evils if we were not "shown the way".

And all this the S.E.C. feels is of little importance to the McGill Campus. Practically all of the Clubs operate on an impossibly low budget. How can any organization function properly without a "half-decent" budget? Yet, the S.E.C. can spend $1,500 on the Awards Banquet and only $468 for all the clubs. I am not against the Awards Banquet, but can't there be a larger budget allowed for the National Clubs? Or maybe, the members of the S.E.C. do not uphold the reasoning powers for which we gave them credit and chose them to be our leaders?

For the last two years, the Cosmopolitan Club has not received a penny from the S.E.C. and at present the Club only has $15 as its capital. Under these conditions, it appears as if the Club will HAVE TO CEASE OPERATING. There will soon be a General Meeting of all Cosmo members to discuss this issue and others.

Druce A. Sinson,
President of the Cosmopolitan Club.

HEENAN CHOSEN TO ATTEND WEST POINT CONFERENCE

Roy Heenan, Law I, has been chosen as McGill's representative to the Ninth Student Conference on United States Affairs which will be held from December 4 to December 7 at the U. S. Military Academy, West Point, New York.

Sixty-five colleges and Universities in Canada and the United States are represented at this conference by 160 students selected on a basis of interest and capability in the field of international relations and the related courses in the social sciences.

"The National Security Policy of the United States" will be the subject of this year's conference. In addition, the students will discuss the following sub-topics: The Atlantic Community, Middle East and Africa, South and

Roy Heenan

Southeast Asia, Latin America, and the U.S.S.R. and Satellites.

ROUND TABLE GROUPS

Each of these sub-topics will be analyzed by a separate round table group of nineteen participants, led by a faculty level chairman and counselled by an advisor who is an authority on the topic. They will proceed to some agreement on the scope and nature of the problem, and then develop a course of action for dealing with it.

A number of speeches and panel discussions presented by authorities in government and academic circles will give the students further guidance. The conference will open with a keynote address by Mr. William C. Foster who is a member of the Science Advisory Group of the Office of Defence Mobilization. At the close of the conference, Mr. Chester Bowles, former Governor of Connecticut and United States Ambassador, will address the participants at an informal banquet.

AWARD-WINNING DESIGNS OF ALCAN COMPETITION SHOWN

Seven sets of award-winning drawings, by Canadian architects, illustrating a new concept of office building design will be on display in the Physical Sciences Building from December 5 to 13.

Pleasant working conditions and amenities for employees are the prevalent features of these ultra-modern designs. The most notable feature is the large open landscaped areas.

The drawings on display were selected award winners in the ALCAN Architectural Competition sponsored by Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (ALCAN).

SITE IN TORONTO

The Competition was open only to members of the R.A.I.C. resident in Canada. It was sparked by interest in a self-contained Sales Office for the Toronto area, and following the trend towards decentralization of industrial plants and retail shopping centers, a proposed site was selected in Etobicoke, on the outskirts of Toronto. The cost of the buildings was set at $500,000.

Sixty Canadian architects submitted entries. The first award of $6,000 was won by Henry Fliess of Toronto. Richard E. Bolton, F.R.A.I.C., Montreal, served as professional adviser.

Clark To Discuss Quebec Oil Deposit

Dr. T.H. Clark, chairman of the Geology Department at McGill University, will speak on the "Potentialities of Oil in the St. Lawrence Lowlands". The speech will be given in Room 232 of the P.S.C. at 1 pm today.

In recent years a large share of the more detailed geological mapping in the area around Montreal has been carried out by Dr. Clark. Several of his reports have been published by the Quebec Department of Mines.

The possibility of oil occurring in economic quantities in the Lowlands has resulted in the recent acceleration of exploration. A large share of the systematic exploration can be accredited to the results of work by geologists such as Dr. Clark.

'Flying Carpet' To Begin Auditions

Anyone who is interested in acting or dancing for the "Flying Carpet" is asked to come to the Union at 8 pm next Thursday, December 12. The proceeds from the Show will go to the International House Fund.

In an effort to combat the housing problem on campus, the funds will be used to provide McGill with an International House where Canadians as well as students from all other countries can live and study together.

Students from many national groups on campus are already rehearsing songs and dances for the show which will be presented in Moyse Hall on January 16, 17, 18.

CHORAL SOCIETY TO PRESENT ANNUAL CHRISTMAS CONCERT

"Sing at Christmas", the annual end-of-term concert by the McGill Choral Society, will take place this year on Saturday, December 14, at 8:30 pm in the Sir Arthur Currie Gymnasium. This year the large choir will be joined by the 35 piece Symphonic Band.

Tickets for "Sing at Christmas" are now on sale for $1.00 at the Union Tuckshop, the International Music Store, or from any member of the Choral Society. The concert is open to the general public as well as McGill students.

Gifford Mitchell, the well-known Montreal musician who directs the Society, has made little change in the programme format that has been traditional since 1945. The popular old carols will again be sung by choir and audience together; during the first half of the concert the Choral Society will sing a wide range of more serious Christmas music, while students from many of the countries represented at McGill will read excerpts from the Christmas Story, both in their own language and in English. The second half of the programme will be devoted to a humorous medley called "A Christmas Party", in which the Symphonic Band, largely composed of members of the Redmen Band, will accompany the Choral Society.

The accompanist of the 230 voice mixed choir is William Stevens, a local concert pianist who has been acclaimed throughout Canada and the United States, and who also does a considerable amount of radio work.

"Miss Georgian Press" Contest

The Georgian, Sir George Williams College's weekly newspaper is sponsoring a "Miss Georgian Press" contest. Three semi-finalists will be picked out of 25 girls tonight at 8 pm in the S.G.W.C. Students' Common Room.

Don Cornell, currently at the El Morocco, will be one of the seven judges who will do the picking out of a bevy of charming contestants.

Later in the week, all Georgian staffers will vote to pick the winner. The lucky girl will be crowned and will receive many prizes at the newspaper's staff party on December 21.

Basketball Team To Play In U.S.

by Steve Fichman

As usually happens in the first week of December, coach Joe Anderson leads his Senior basketball Redmen across the U.S. border today to tangle with the Clarkson College Golden Knights. Tomorrow they journey ten miles to face the St. Lawrence University Larries in the second and final game of their road trip.

Anderson has been working his charges five days per week for the last month in preparation for these two exhibition contests, and as he says, "If we're hitting, we will give them a tough fight."

CROSS BACK

Big 6'5" Justin Cross will lead the McGill squad at center. 'Jut' has been an important factor in all of the games that he has played with the Redmen, and if his studies don't interfere too much this season, he is bound to play a lot of good ball.

Playing the guard positions will be captain Don Wright and Tim Leary. Wright, who has been hampered by a leg injury ever since his return from the Macabian games, is sure to turn in a fine effort if he starts. Leary, a product of Rochester, will be an asset to the Redmen with his accurate shooting.

Along with these hoopsters will be Johnny Thompson, who is returning to the squad after a year's absence, and Tom Richards, a 6'4" newcomer who will fill in for Cross at center. Added to the Redmen line-up will be Roy Miller, Sonny Gordon, Hugh Mackinnon and George Rosenberg among others.

Two of last year's top rebounders, Leon Du Plessis and Herm Zloklikovits, will not make the trip due to

BOXING

All boxers participating in the Athletics night show against Dartmouth are urged to attend tonight's workout at 5 pm for further instructions.

WOMEN'S SNOOKER

All coeds are invited to attend the women's "pool" class tonight and every Tuesday in the Union Billiard Room from 8-10:30 pm under the expert tutelage of Syd Leithman, B.C. L-1.

YMHA Polomen Down McGill 16-10

The Y.M.H.A. Blues proved without a doubt that they are the class of the city water polo teams when they outswam and outscored the McGill Redmen by a 16-10 count in the McGill pool last night.

George Sevcik, an Hungarian ace, led the 'Y' attack with six goals. Sharp-shooting Normie Goldberg followed close behind with five markers. Manny Hoffman and Syd Kastner scored twice apiece, while Milo Klacko tallied once in his first appearance of the season.

Bernie 'Topper' Toporowski tied for high-scoring honours by tallying six of McGill's ten markers. Charlie Evelyn scored twice, while Bill Manning and Rod Roy each counted once. Juris Svistunen played in goal for the Redmen in the absence of regular goaler John Chabrol.

The first half produced some of the best water polo action of the season. Each team scored three times in a close, hard-fought first quarter. The 'Y' began to assert its superiority in the second quarter, outscoring McGill 5-2. With the Blues leading 8-5 at the half, it was still anybody's game.

The Blues dominated the second half, continuously outswimming and outpositioning the Redmen. They outscored McGill 4-2 in the third quarter and 4-3 in the final canto to make the final count 16-10.

pressure of studies.

The Clarkson contest should provide plenty of thrills as the Redmen are set to avenge last season's close defeat at the hands of the Golden Knights.

LARRIES' ROSTER

Going for coach Bob Sheldon's Larries will be forwards Bob Slater, Rusty Kraft and Dave Marcotte, as well as guards Al Geppert and Tony Marotte. The Larries have been weak in the passing department this year, and coach Sheldon has been working his squad's fingers to the bone in order to sharpen up their passing attack.

In last year's encounter, the Red and White squad held their own against the Larries until the final fifteen minutes when McGill tired badly and fell apart.

Actually, the McGill crew isn't being given much of a chance of running all over their American opponents, but as coach Anderson says, "We'll be in there plugging."

WOMEN'S HOCKEY

Coach Leo Konyk says the Redmen have nothing on his promising teams of belles from Arts and Science, Commerce, Physical Education, and Physiotherapy, who have been practicing every Wednesday from 1-2 and Friday from 5-6.

The schedule starts this Friday, when the Physio's meet Arts & Science at 5 and Alpha Omicron Pi vs. the D.G.'s at 5:30 pm.
